

Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder.

Purity and wholesomeness in food compounds are of the utmost importance; in these qualities Cleveland's excels all other baking powders. All the ingredients are published on the label, and this analysis is verified by Official Reports and Government and State Chemists.

Strength in a baking powder means economy. The Official Reports of the United States Government, 1889, Canadian Government, 1889, New Jersey Commission, 1880, and Ohio Food Commission, 1887, prove that Cleveland's is the strongest of all the pure* cream of tartar baking powders.

Perfection in results is what housekeepers desire. For making light, digestible bread, flaky biscuit, cake that will keep moist and sweet, delicious pastry, pot-pies, dumplings, etc., Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder is unsurpassed.

The late Ohio Food Commissioner says "Cleveland's is Absolutely the Best and most desirable baking powder manufactured."

*Ammonia or alum powders may occasionally test a trifle higher, but they are dangerous to health, and whatever their strength, they should be avoided. As baking powders adulterated with these injurious ingredients are being palmed off as pure cream of tartar powders, the United States Official Report, 1889, recommends that manufacturers be required by law to label giving the composition of the powder sold.

HOME NEWS.

WHAT IS GOING ON TO-DAY.

Flock divine case, Supreme Court.

Meeting of directors of Union Ferry Company, foot of Fulton-st., Brooklyn, 10 a. m.

Reformed preachers' and Baptist pastors' meetings,

Meeting of New York Presbyterians, Scotch Church.

Convention of Seafaring men, City Hall, 10 a. m.

Grand Memorial Association, No. 146 Broadway, 3 p. m.

Martin Society meeting, 4 p. m.

Political Club, 10 a. m., Room No. 32 East One-hundred-and-nineteenth-st., 4:30 p. m.

Pair in aid of St. Mary's Free Hospital for Children, Sherman's, 2 to 11 p. m.

Meeting of the Republican Organization of the XXII Assembly District, No. 8 Fifty-ninth-st., 8 p. m.

American Geographical Society, Chipping Hall, 8 p. m.

Harlem Yacht Club's social, Harlem Turn Hall, 8 p. m.

Meetings of Company I, 7th Regiment, Berkeley Lanes, 8:30 p. m.

Lecture by Miss Louise Roth-Hendriksen, Brooklyn Institute, 4 p. m.

NEW YORK CITY.

A Subscriber?—The periodical "Railroad Topics" is published at No. 35 Franklin-st.

A promenade concert will be given by the 7th Regiment band at the armory on Saturday evening, in commemoration of the departure of the regiment for the Civil War.

A musical reception was given in Sailors' Hall on the Cok Dock, Navy Yard, on Saturday night. There were solos, duets, recitations, etc. Among those present were Captain L. A. Beardlee and his wife and Lieutenant N. R. Ulster, L. K. Reynolds and W. F. Elliott.

The Provincial of the Brothers of Mary arrived in this city on Saturday from Dayton, Ohio, to make the annual visitation of all the schools under control of that order in this section.

The Literary Union connected with St. Columba's Roman Catholic Union, in West Twenty-fifth-st., has purchased the house No. 456 West Twenty-fourth-st., and will move into it on May 1.

The annual dinner of the Catholic Young Men's Society of New York, under the auspices of the Archdiocesan Union, will take place at Mazzetti's on April 22. Already 250 tickets have been sold.

A new wing, which is now nearing completion, is being added to St. John's College, Fordham, at a cost of $300,000.

The Society of Catholic Mechanics, of which the Rev. Adam F. Toussaint is president, is arranging for an entertainment in Turn Hall in aid of the Leo House for German Immigrants, No. 6 State-st.

The funeral of James Burton was held at his home, No. 46 West Fifteenth-st., yesterday afternoon. Nearly 300 people were present among them a large delegation from the Talmudic Lodge of Masons, of which Mr. Burton was treasurer for many years; also members of the Undertakers' Association, the Linonia Club and the IXth Assembly District Republican organization. The burial will be at Greenwood to-day.

The season for speckled trout in Pennsylvania waters begins to-morrow, and runs until July 15.

POSTOFFICE CLERKS WANT EIGHT HOURS.

The regular monthly meeting of the Postoffice Clerks Association took place yesterday at No. 240 East Fifteenth-st., and was the largest one ever held by the organization. There is a small minority in the association which does not favor the bills now before Congress providing for a legal workday of eight hours and a vacation of fifteen days a year for postoffice clerks, and this minority appeared in full force at yesterday's meeting and made things lively. The minority wanted things so changed that the clerks should receive larger salaries and work as many hours as necessary. A resolution was at last introduced indorsing the bills now before Congress and was carried by a large majority. Postmaster Van Cott, who is in favor of the legislation, received several telegrams from clerks that he could help them as much as he could.

Ex-Congressman Timothy J. Campbell was present and spoke on the two bills. He said that he had seen a number of Congressmen in Washington, and he promised to speak to a number of them, and a favorable report would bear a favorable report on the bills.

A vote of thanks was unanimously passed to Postmaster Van Cott, ex-congressman Campbell and Congressman George H. Chapman for their work in behalf of the Postoffice employees.

THE REV. DR. WYLIE'S FOURTH ANNIVERSARY.

The Rev. Dr. David G. Wyllie preached his fourth anniversary sermon in the Knox Presbyterian Church, East Seventy-second-st., last evening to a large congregation. During the four years of the pastorate of Dr. Wyllie, 1,000 new converts have been added. There have been eighty-two baptisms, and 34 new members, 166 coming from other churches and 182 uniting on profession of faith, twenty of them at the communion services yesterday morning. A new church building is wanted for this congregation.

CASTLE GARDEN'S DAYS NUMBERED.

Yesterday was the immigrant's last Sunday in Castle Garden. About 100 Hungarians were about the Garden in the morning, en route to their destination in the West. In the afternoon eighty Germans landed, but the Garden was generally dreary and deserted. Commis-sioners, stars and Stevenson came down in the forenoon, but went away early.

The Barge Office is rapidly being transformed into a suitable landing place and will be ready at the appointed time.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS FOR A CHURCH.

An amateur theatrical entertainment was given at Chipping Hall last night, the proceeds of which are to be presented to Christ Church, a portion of whose income to its new quarters at the Bowery and Avenue of the Americas, the hall consisted of the Benedictine "Pictorial Benedictine," and the two others of "The Doctor of Alabam." The actors in the two pieces were Miss Alice Lawrence, Miss Mary Perkins, Miss Rita Lawrence, Robert Lee Morris, John Bernad Blake, Charles Rice, Oscar Lecare, Rogers, Franklin Matt, Warner, Teddie M. Minton, Miss Clark, Miss Sally Flagg and Miss Alice Lawrence.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

A SAD STORY OF THE SEA.

THE CAPTAIN'S WIFE DIED AND HE WAS FOUND DEAD IN HIS BUNK—HIS VESSEL SINKS ANOTHER.

The American bark Battracte Havener arrived in this port late on Saturday with a tale of the sea and of misfortune. She was forty-five days out from Rio Janeiro in ballast. She had previously been to Buenos Ayres, where Mrs. Havener, the captain's wife, died, leaving two young children to the care of the captain. He went to Rio, and failing to get a cargo there sailed for New York. Four days out from Rio Captain Havener was found dead in his bunk, with his two young children sleeping beside him. His death was due to heart disease, from which he had been suffering for some time. The first mate, Daniel Rigan, then took command of the vessel. The captain was buried at sea on the day after his death. He was an old shipmate and had been for some years in command of the Havener. His home was in Searport, Me., to which place his children have been sent.

The mate, Mr. Rigan, brought the bark here all right until when off Hatteras, on April 7, he ran into and sank the schooner Ethel A. Merritt, of Philadelphia. It was a dark, stormy night, the wind blowing a heavy gale from the northwest. Mr. Rigan was below when the officer of the watch called him and said that there was a vessel ahead showing a green light over a red light. He got on deck hastily and made out a schooner standing across his bows on the starboard tack. The Havener was to leeward of the schooner, and Mr. Rigan immediately hoisted the helm hard a-starboard. It was too late and the bark struck the schooner close by her fore rigging, cutting her to the water's edge. The captain and five men of the crew of the Merritt boarded a boat and succeeded in getting ashore. The Havener stood by the Merritt until morning, when it was seen that there was no hope of saving the schooner. Her captain then returned to the bark to find it afire. The captain of the Havener says that he was taken by the Merritt's foremast was gone and she was rapidly settling in the water. The Merritt was built in Philadelphia in 1878 and registered 131 tons.

The Havener is now adrift, the captain says, with the bark.

The captain of the Merritt says that he was struck by the Havener.

The mate, Mr. Rigan, brought the bark here all right until when off Hatteras, on April 7, he ran into and sank the schooner Ethel A. Merritt, of Philadelphia.

It was a dark, stormy night, the wind blowing a heavy gale from the northwest. Mr. Rigan was below when the officer of the watch called him and said that there was a vessel ahead showing a green light over a red light.

He got on deck hastily and made out a schooner standing across his bows on the starboard tack.

The Havener was to leeward of the schooner, and Mr. Rigan immediately hoisted the helm hard a-starboard.

It was too late and the bark struck the schooner close by her fore rigging, cutting her to the water's edge.

The captain and five men of the crew of the Merritt boarded a boat and succeeded in getting ashore.

The Havener stood by the Merritt until morning, when it was seen that there was no hope of saving the schooner.

Her captain then returned to the bark to find it afire.

The captain of the Havener says that he was taken by the Merritt's foremast was gone and she was rapidly settling in the water. The Merritt was built in Philadelphia in 1878 and registered 131 tons.

The Havener is now adrift, the captain says, with the bark.

The captain of the Merritt says that he was struck by the Havener.

The mate, Mr. Rigan, brought the bark here all right until when off Hatteras, on April 7, he ran into and sank the schooner Ethel A. Merritt, of Philadelphia.

It was a dark, stormy night, the wind blowing a heavy gale from the northwest. Mr. Rigan was below when the officer of the watch called him and said that there was a vessel ahead showing a green light over a red light.

He got on deck hastily and made out a schooner standing across his bows on the starboard tack.

The Havener was to leeward of the schooner, and Mr. Rigan immediately hoisted the helm hard a-starboard.

It was too late and the bark struck the schooner close by her fore rigging, cutting her to the water's edge.

The captain and five men of the crew of the Merritt boarded a boat and succeeded in getting ashore.

The Havener stood by the Merritt until morning, when it was seen that there was no hope of saving the schooner.

Her captain then returned to the bark to find it afire.

The captain of the Havener says that he was taken by the Merritt's foremast was gone and she was rapidly settling in the water. The Merritt was built in Philadelphia in 1878 and registered 131 tons.

The Havener is now adrift, the captain says, with the bark.

The captain of the Merritt says that he was struck by the Havener.

The mate, Mr. Rigan, brought the bark here all right until when off Hatteras, on April 7, he ran into and sank the schooner Ethel A. Merritt, of Philadelphia.

It was a dark, stormy night, the wind blowing a heavy gale from the northwest. Mr. Rigan was below when the officer of the watch called him and said that there was a vessel ahead showing a green light over a red light.

He got on deck hastily and made out a schooner standing across his bows on the starboard tack.

The Havener was to leeward of the schooner, and Mr. Rigan immediately hoisted the helm hard a-starboard.

It was too late and the bark struck the schooner close by her fore rigging, cutting her to the water's edge.

The captain and five men of the crew of the Merritt boarded a boat and succeeded in getting ashore.

The Havener stood by the Merritt until morning, when it was seen that there was no hope of saving the schooner.

Her captain then returned to the bark to find it afire.

The captain of the Havener says that he was taken by the Merritt's foremast was gone and she was rapidly settling in the water. The Merritt was built in Philadelphia in 1878 and registered 131 tons.

The Havener is now adrift, the captain says, with the bark.

The captain of the Merritt says that he was struck by the Havener.

The mate, Mr. Rigan, brought the bark here all right until when off Hatteras, on April 7, he ran into and sank the schooner Ethel A. Merritt, of Philadelphia.

It was a dark, stormy night, the wind blowing a heavy gale from the northwest. Mr. Rigan was below when the officer of the watch called him and said that there was a vessel ahead showing a green light over a red light.

He got on deck hastily and made out a schooner standing across his bows on the starboard tack.

The Havener was to leeward of the schooner, and Mr. Rigan immediately hoisted the helm hard a-starboard.

It was too late and the bark struck the schooner close by her fore rigging, cutting her to the water's edge.

The captain and five men of the crew of the Merritt boarded a boat and succeeded in getting ashore.

The Havener stood by the Merritt until morning, when it was seen that there was no hope of saving the schooner.

Her captain then returned to the bark to find it afire.

The captain of the Havener says that he was taken by the Merritt's foremast was gone and she was rapidly settling in the water. The Merritt was built in Philadelphia in 1878 and registered 131 tons.

The Havener is now adrift, the captain says, with the bark.

The captain of the Merritt says that he was struck by the Havener.

The mate, Mr. Rigan, brought the bark here all right until when off Hatteras, on April 7, he ran into and sank the schooner Ethel A. Merritt, of Philadelphia.

It was a dark, stormy night, the wind blowing a heavy gale from the northwest. Mr. Rigan was below when the officer of the watch called him and said that there was a vessel ahead showing a green light over a red light.

He got on deck hastily and made out a schooner standing across his bows on the starboard tack.

The Havener was to leeward of the schooner, and Mr. Rigan immediately hoisted the helm hard a-starboard.

It was too late and the bark struck the schooner close by her fore rigging, cutting her to the water's edge.

The captain and five men of the crew of the Merritt boarded a boat and succeeded in getting ashore.

The Havener stood by the Merritt until morning, when it was seen that there was no hope of saving the schooner.

Her captain then returned to the bark to find it afire.

The captain of the Havener says that he was taken by the Merritt's foremast was gone and she was rapidly settling in the water. The Merritt was built in Philadelphia in 1878 and registered 131 tons.

The Havener is now adrift, the captain says, with the bark.